JAN 26 JOHN TILTON.

COUNTRY SEAT FOR SALE.
A very desirable and healthy situation in Dorchester, on the upper road leading to Milton, about a quarter of a mile from Dr. Codman's Meeting house, and about 4 1/2 miles from City Hall, consisting of a well built two story house, with all the usual conveniences for a gentleman's residence. The house commands an extensive view of the harbor and surrounding country, and is considered to be one of the most pleasantly situated houses in the vicinity of Boston. The premises contain about one and a half acre of land, laid out in a garden with gravelled walks, &c., and stock, with about 150 trees of the most esteemed varieties of fruit, including a bearing state, consisting of apples, pears, peaches, plums, cherries, &c., and an abundance of grapes of the most hardy kinds. Any person wishing a permanent residence in the country, the house is well adapted to the rising and falling of the tides, and the sun in winter from the rising until sitting. The premises can be examined at any time, and possession given immediately. The principal part of the purchase money may remain on mortgage if desired. For further particulars inquire of E. E. DYER, 29 Washington street. JAN 31

TO LET.
A cottage built on a lot containing ten rooms, with a good stable and three quarters of an acre of land, situated 1/2 mile from State street. JOHN I. SPEAR, 7 Exchange street.

TO PERSONS SUFFERING FROM RHEUMATIC COMPLAINTS.

To the Editor of the Inquirer:
SIR—On the principles inculcated by the great and good Dr. Franklin, to diffuse as widely as possible every means in our power to mitigate or remove the afflictions of suffering humanity, I feel it incumbent upon me to make known through this medium of your useful paper that reading therein an advertisement of Dr. J. B. Prescott's Liniment, for the cure of RHEUMATISM, I was forcibly impressed with a belief that it was calculated to remove the severe Rheumatic Affliction to which I had been for seven or eight years subjected, sometimes almost depriving me of the use of my limbs, and accordingly procured a Bottle, and before I had used the whole of it, found very sensible relief. This increased my confidence in it, and led me to obtain another bottle, the use of which has completely removed the swellings and pains of my limbs, together with the cramp, and restored them to their wonted vigor.
I am respectfully yours,
GEORGE TAYLOR, JR.

Hempstead, L. I., March 24th, 1837.
Persons suffering from the above complaints, and in despair of a cure from the failure of the various remedies they have used, are invited to make trial of this long and celebrated medicine, which has in years passed cured and relieved, as it is in the power of the author, who has despatched it free of charge. Nothing but a fair trial can give an adequate idea of its unrivaled excellence. It is also one of the best applications known for stiffness of the joints, numbness, sprains and chilblains.
Price 50 cents.
None are genuine unless signed T. KIDDER, on the wrapper, (sole proprietor, and successor to Dr. CONWAY), by whom they are for sale, at his Counting Room, No. 99 Court st. Boston, and by his special appointment, by Henshaw & Co., Boston, and by the following Dealers, in the several States:—

THE TRUTH OUGHT TO PREVAIL.
DR. A. ANDREW, No. 8 North Square, will not attempt to improve upon the good sense of his fellow citizens, as many do so much as to promise to cure the following disorders in eight and forty hours, viz: Gonorrhea, Syphilis, &c.; but this much he will say, that he has met with as great success in the treatment of the above diseases, as any other physician in the city, and will accept the challenge of any respectable M. D. in the United States, patient to patient. His remedy is easy and safe—to those who may please to apply and pay his fee, he will insure a safe and speedy cure—it will not hinder them in their different avocations. The utmost secrecy observed.
Beware of those consummately ignorant quacks, who pretend to cure diseases, the nature of which they have not the most remote conception.
He may be consulted at his residence, the Stone House leading from School street to the Grand Locks in Lowell, every Saturday afternoon until Monday forenoon. 3m d 9

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED. DR. HERBERT, Member of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh, may be consulted on all diseases incident to the human frame. Patients who are incapable from infirmity of attending personally upon Dr. H. can, by sending a particular statement of their case, be told whether they are curable or not.
"Medicine without principles is an humble Art, and a degrading occupation."
Dr. Herbert having arrived in America for the purpose of taking a tour through it, and seeing in every place he visited so many invalids laboring under different complaints, and so many who have ruined their constitutions by applying to advertised nostrums, respectfully informs the citizens that he has returned to the city of Boston and intends remaining for the purpose of rendering his services to the afflicted.
Dr. H. may be consulted at his apartments, No. 274 Washington st., a few doors West of Avon Place, from 10 in the morning till 3 in the evening. The Doctor wishes every person who may need his advice, to make timely application.
The advantages Dr. H. has possessed of acquiring a knowledge of different diseases, have been far greater than generally falls to the lot of any individual. From his peculiar mode of treatment, his professional celebrity has been established;—and since his arrival in America, gratitude arising from a thousand hearts has been a sweet enjoyment.
Report of patients relieved and cured by Dr. Herbert since his arrival in the U. States.—Aches 36—Asthma (periodical, constitutional and spasmodic) 70—Blindness, from various causes, 36—Dropsy, in its complicated stages, 63—Fits 64—Rheumatism, 80—Stone and Gravel, 50—Bilious Disorders, 57—Cancer and White Swelling, 68—Consumption, 50—Deafness, 54—Diseases of Infants, 68—Giddiness, 67—Gout, 52—Headache, from various causes, 75—King's Evil, 46—Liver Complaints, 51—Lumbago, 52—Scorvey, 68—Gravel, 75—Ulcerated Sore Legs, 58—Worms, 85—Paralytic Stroke, 56—Ague, 80.

DR. T. PRESCOTT continues to perform all the necessary operations on the Teeth, both for their beauty and preservation.
Dr. P. having obtained the latest and highly approved method of inserting the mineral or incorruptible Teeth on gold plate, so recently introduced in Paris, feels assured that he cannot fail to give a general and acknowledged satisfaction to all who may favor him with their calls.
Persons requiring operations on the teeth will please call and send specimens at office, corner of Hanover and Portland street.
N. B. Dentists supplied with Mineral or Incorruptible Teeth, European and American, wholesale and retail, on the most reasonable terms. Orders from the country promptly answered.

INCORRUPTIBLE PORCELAIN TEETH.—The subscriber returns his sincere thanks to the citizens of Boston for the liberal patronage he has received from them during the last year—he has now removed his office to a more central situation, and owing to the great number of teeth inserted by him daily, he is enabled to reduce his terms at least 50 per cent on all operations from this date. The average price for the best Porcelain Teeth will be, on gold plate $3, pivot $1 to $1.50, filling and cleaning 75 cents to $1, and all operations warranted for the term of five years. He will continue to visit persons at their residence and complete any operations in two visits half an hour each. He has within the last three years instructed several Dentists in this city, who are now practising with great success.
The hours of business will be from 9 A. M. to 1 P. M. and from 3 until 9 P. M.
N. B. A complete set of 24 teeth in maniac with case, for a person that has no teeth, will be ready for inspection in one month, and one hundred dollars will be paid on presentation for a better specimen of workmanship.

PHLEPS'S ARCANUM.—For the cure of the worst diseases of the skin, ulcers, sores, scrofula or king's evil, syphilis and mercurial diseases, rheumatism, white swellings, liver affections, constitutions of the bowels, general debility &c. And such diseases as are caused by an impure or bad condition of the blood. It is likewise particularly recommended to those whose constitutions are broken by habits of luxury and intemperance, the injudicious use of quinine and mercury, and badly cured diseases, by unsuitable or irregular treatment, and all these long and dangerous diseases are cured by remote causes in the system.
The Arcanum has proved itself by years of experience far superior in its effects to the Panacea of Swaim, Catholicon of Potter, or the French Robs. In testimony of the above state of affairs, the most skillful of the profession, in New York, Dr. Jones of Baton Rouge, Dr. Archer of Virginia, Dr. Godman of Philadelphia, who have investigated the properties and efficacy of the article, and affirmed it as being superior to all medicines in their knowledge, for the removal of the diseases above named. Price $2 per bottle.
Bottle, Mass., Aug. 1st, 1835.
In the year 1830 I requested Dr. Phelps to visit a daughter of mine, aged about 15 years, having a distortion of the spine or back bone, and whose general health had always been feeble.
The curvature of the spine, at that time, had acquired a hopeless and singularly disfigured appearance, and the Sternum or breast bone corresponded with the distortion, preventing to the beholder a deformity calculated to excite the deepest sympathy. From the first appearance of this disease, I had solicited the most skillful of the profession, who attended, various prescriptions and remedies were unattended with success or benefit—in a word, the progressive march of the disease bid defiance to the ingenuity of skill, and the power of medicine.
It was under these circumstances that we commenced the use of the Arcanum, which was perseveringly administered for several months. Her general health soon began to improve, and the progress of the disease was gradually arrested, by this medicine only, and the use of the salt water bath.
From this period, her strength and energies of mind and body were steadily improving, and the deformity has subsided with the growth of years. At this time, which is more than five years since, we adopted the treatment of Dr. Phelps, my daughter is in the enjoyment of good health, to our astonishment and admiration. She has been a teacher or instructor in the school of the Rev. Mr. DAVENPORT.
The great demand for the Arcanum, and its remarkable effects in chronic diseases, give it the decided preference to any other medicine. See Medical Adviser.

DR. CHAPMAN'S COUGH MIXTURE.
This "Cough Mixture" is highly recommended by N. Chapman, M. D. Professor of the Institutes and Practice of Medicine, &c. in the University of Pennsylvania, as a superior article. Price 50 cents.

CHEMICAL PILE OINTMENT.
This article is also prepared from a Formula of Professor Chapman's, of Philadelphia, for the cure of the Piles, and is an excellent remedy. Price 50 cents.

FISHER'S CORN PLASTER.
This Plaster, for the cure of Corns, is not equalled by any remedy in this country. Price 50 cents.
The above celebrated and excellent medicines are constantly on hand, at retail prices, by J. L. M. WARD, 50 CO. corner of India and Milk sts., Boston. Dealers supplied at the lowest wholesale prices.

POETRY.

THE HAPPY FAMILY.

Fondly familiar is the look she gives
As he returns, who forth so lately went—
For they together pass their happy lives;
And many a tranquil evening have they spent
Since, blushing, ignorantly innocent,
She vowed with downcast eyes and chagrel hue,
To love him only. Love fulfilled, hath lent
Its deep repose; and when he meets her view,
Her soft look only says,—"I trust—and I am true."

Scattered like flowers, the rosy children play—
Or round her chair a busy crowd they press;
But, at the Father's coming, start away,
With playful struggle for his loved caress,
And jealous of the one he first may kiss,
To each a welcoming word is fondly said;
He bends and kisses some; lifts up the less;
Admires the little chick, so round and red,
Or smooths with tender hand the curled and shining head.

Oh! let us pause, and gaze upon them now.
Is there not one—beloved and lovely boy,
With Mother's bright smile upon his open brow,
And sweet fond eyes, brimful of love and joy?
He, who no measure of delight can cloy,
The darling and the darling of the set;
He, who though pleased with every passing toy,
Thoughtless and buoyant to excess, could yet
Never a gentle word or kindly deed forget?

And one more fragile than the rest, for whom—
As for the weak bird in a crowded nest—
Are needed all the fostering care of home
And the soft comfort of the brooding breast:
One, who hath of the couch of sickness prest!
On whom the Mother looks, as it goes by,
With tenderness intense, and fear suppress,
While the soft patience of her anxious eye
Blends with "God's will be done—God grant thou may'st not die!"

And is there not the elder of the band?
She with the gentle smile and smooth bright hair,
Waiting, some pace back,—content to stand
Till there of Love's caresses have their share;
Knowing how soon his fond paternal care
Shall seek his violet in her shoddy nook,
Patient she stands—demure, and brightly fair—
Copying the meekness of her Mother's look,
And clasping in her hand the favorite story-book.

Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine.—New American Edition, Vol. III. No. 5. New York, Theodore Foster.—We have received this number of Blackwood from the publishers, and find in it the usual quantity of interesting matter. Blackwood's Magazine is edited by Professor Wilson—the celebrated author of "Lights and Shadows of Scottish Life," a volume of the most interesting and pathetic tales in the English language. It is rather a remarkable fact, that an author who exhibits so much passionate sympathy for the sufferings of the peasantry, as is displayed in the "Lights and Shadows," &c., should in politics be a high Tory. Yet such is the editor of Blackwood's Magazine—a periodical, which so far as it treats of politics is exclusively devoted to the Tory party of Great Britain. Notwithstanding its politics, however, American literature is generally reviewed with quite as much candour in Blackwood, as in any other of the English periodicals. It was probably personal interest and prudence that led Professor Wilson to take side with the Tories. The articles in Blackwood are mostly of a high order, and contributed by some of the first literary characters in the kingdom. It may be considered as the literary representative of the Tory party in Great Britain, and it is worthy of the attention of American readers, as affording them a good idea of the present state of English literature and politics.—At Otis, Broaders & Co.

A Minister's Smile.—"Where can we find a rake large enough to rake all the sinners together. Where can we find a besom strong enough to sweep them all into hell?"

This specimen of extravagance was uttered by a clergyman from the pulpit, in the West. We have often heard denunciations equally extravagant, equally offensive to good taste, sound logic and true christianity. Such ranters do infinite harm to the Gospel, and violate the letter and spirit of the New Testament.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Brutal Conduct."—The following dialogue lately took place. An Irish gentleman was giving his evidence before a bench of Magistrates touching an assault. He deposed to certain "brutal conduct." From the Bench—"What do you mean by brutal conduct?" "Why, I consider it brutal conduct if a man comes up to my steward and attempts to stick him through the guts with a pick-lock."—Era.

LEGISLATIVE.

In the House, the Bill for distributing the Surplus Revenue, is still under debate by the Committee of the Whole, Col. R. C. Winthrop, of Boston, in the Chair. The first question being on the amendment, proposing to divide the money upon the compound basis of the population of 1830, and the rateable polls of 1837. On Monday, the Speaker addressed the Committee with much energy in support of the proposition, which was in the nature of a compromise between that portion of the House, who were in favor of taking the population basis of 1830, alone, and the other portion nearly as great, who were in favor of the population basis of 1837. He was of opinion, that if either of these bases were adopted a very large minority would be extremely dissatisfied with the result. Hence, therefore, the necessity of a compromise, in which both parties would yield a little to each other. The honorable Speaker intimated, that so far as the basis of 1830 and 1837 were at issue, he was in favor of the latter, as apparently the most just and equitable.

On Tuesday, Mr. Rantoul took the floor in opposition to the amendment, and the views of the Speaker. He said that the Committee, by a majority of four to one, had already once decided that the rateable polls of 1837, should not be the basis of distribution. He therefore did not think it at all necessary to enter into any argument against so much of the amendment as related to the rateable polls; for if it were wrong to distribute a half upon that basis, it could not be right to distribute one half upon it. If it be right to distribute any portion so, it must be still more right and just to distribute the whole sum on that principle. No gentleman could pretend, that the inequality of the polls of 1837, as a basis, bore any comparison to the monstrous inequality of a union of the population of 1830 with the polls of 1837. Gentlemen had by a vote of quite four-fifths refused to do a small wrong, and would they now do a great wrong to avoid the small one.

Much (said Mr. Rantoul) had been said about Lowell, where, at present, the female portion of the population somewhat exceeded the male. Gentlemen were awfully alarmed at the idea of giving to Lowell—that is, taking their own estimate, which he was not quite prepared to admit was correct—three thousand shares, (or, in other words, the share of three thousand persons) too much; and to remedy this evil, what do they propose? Why, to go back to the census of 1830, by which they will deprive Lowell of twelve thousand shares! Why this very example upon which they so much rely, is decisively against the argument attempted to be drawn from it. It clearly and unanswerably establishes the fact, that the greatest of two unavoidable evils would be effected by the adoption of the amendment.

Mr. Rantoul said, that in supporting a distribution upon the present, instead of a past population, he was not at all influenced by its favourable or unfavourable effects upon particular towns. He hoped that members would not regard towns, in acting on the subject; but would legislate for the whole State, and the first great interest of the State is to be just. The jealousy against these towns which had increased in population was as unjust as unfounded; for in proportion to their increase, had they paid toward the Tariff. The honorable Speaker has said, that each person in the State was entitled to a share. I respond to that sentiment, said Mr. Rantoul; he has made an argument, which cannot be answered; but how can it be carried into effect, except by dividing it among the existing population. There appears, said he, to be a singular alibi of mental vision on this subject. The census of 1830 seemed to mislead the entire of gentlemen entirely. Why not look to the future as well as the past? What do we see in the perspective? Why that Lowell, which in ten years hence, will have a population of probably 25,000, will only receive the use of the portion allotted to it, under the census of 1837, which will not give over 18,000. As another illustration of the relative evils which the House had to select from, Mr. Rantoul asked gentlemen to remember, that, while by adopting the census of 1830, some towns, at the extent would only gain fifteen per cent.; other towns would lose one-half, and many other two-thirds, by such a distribution.

A great deal has been said about the benefits Lowell had received from the Tariff. Well, even admitting, for brevity's sake, that this was true, in that particular instance, were there not other towns which had increased in population, but regarding which no such pretence could be set up? Among them was New Bedford, and what was the fact with regard to that increasing town? In what were its principal investments? In ship-building chiefly, on some of the materials for the construction of which, heavy duties, under the tariff had been paid—amounting at least to $200,000 under the present law! And yet it is now proposed to cut that town down to the census of 1830! The census of 1830, said Mr. Rantoul, is the census of the dead! Why do you propose to divide this money among the dead bones now rotting in the tomb? This money, which has been paid by the people of 1836, and is now paying in by those in existence! Why, why should the money paid by the living generation, be distributed according to the locations of a past generation. Mr. R. said, he felt assured, that the people desired no such unreasonable inequality, and he did not believe that they could contemplate any thing of the kind. The people only required their representatives to do justice. He hoped that to members, after voting on this question, would go back ashamed to hold up his head. What if he should go back with five dollars less in his pocket, than his constituents might expect to receive upon the old census? Would he not be able to say to them—"It is true we might have received $5.00 more, if that census had been adopted, as the basis, but, after full consideration, we found that that would not have been a just basis, and therefore, we rejected it." Are the people of Massachusetts so mean as not to be satisfied with this answer? Would they be satisfied with any other; even if it should be accompanied with five dollars more, instead of less, than they expected?

Mr. Rantoul at this stage remarked, that in case the amendment under discussion was rejected, as he hoped it would be, he would offer another, providing for the taking of a new census, in which the permanent residents of towns only, should be admitted. Transient residents were to be counted in the towns where they had their regular homes, instead of in the towns where they happened to be accidentally at the time of taking the census. This amendment, he said, only differed in matters of form, from the one offered by Mr. Webster, of Haverhill. Its only advantage over it, he considered to be in the fact, that it would ensure a distribution among the actual, instead of the accidental population of towns. Again, referring to the remarks of the Speaker, and the amendment supported by him, Mr. Rantoul said: "I hope that the amendment, which consists of two inequities, will be promptly rejected, and one of justice and righteousness be adopted in its stead."

Mr. Whitmore, of Cambridge, expressed his astonishment, that the Speaker should advocate so extraordinary a proposition as the union of the census of 1830, and the polls of 1837. He, however, was unable to see any difference between the amendments of Messrs. Rantoul and Webster, and, therefore, apprehended that the introduction of the former might only occasion delay, without producing any advantage. He would be obliged to Mr. Rantoul to explain fully the difference, if there were any.

Mr. Rockwell replied to Mr. Rantoul, and objected to the phrase that Mr. Thayer's amendment consisted of two inequities, while the substitute was denominated one of justice and righteousness. Upon further reflection, said Mr. Rockwell, I am prepared to say, that no plan is so just as to divide this money on the basis of the census of 1830, and the rateable polls of 1837. The towns whose population had somewhat decreased were entitled to something in the nature of an average upon the past ten years. He was convinced that a compromise in which the towns which had outstripped their less favored neighbors, would yield something to them which alone would be satisfactory.

He hoped that the Surplus revenue would not prove an apple of discord to the State, but on the contrary a cord of love. He would ask gentlemen to look at the position of the two parties into which the towns were now divided. The members, who represented the towns, whose population had decreased, thought it right

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1837.

From our Special Correspondent.

New York, Sunday, Jan. 28.—Whoever stood on the front of the Providence Railroad depot at the foot of the Common on Saturday Jan. 27th at 8 o'clock in the morning, precisely, undoubtedly saw an interesting looking person with Roman nose, green spectacles and yellow whiskers, step out of a carriage and inquire if he was not too late. Being assured he was in the nick of time, the stranger pulled up his shirt collar, strained himself up to his full height and took a pinch of snuff. Two minutes after he took his seat in car I, which forthwith started ahead and instantly vanished from the gaze of the spectators.

We must now change the scene to a cow pasture about six miles from Boston, through which runs the track of the railroad. About thirty minutes have elapsed since our last interview with the interesting stranger at the depot. You see that speck in the line of the track, which appears no bigger than a blue-bottle on the back of a short-tailed white horse in fly-time. That is the train of cars of the great railroad company, and in that centre vehicle, whirled at the rate of ten miles an hour, may be found the interesting stranger with Roman nose, green spectacles, and yellow whiskers.

There is something exhilarating in travelling on a railroad in a driving snow-storm. The wheels of the locomotive fly round like a whirlingig, and when you imagine you are progressing about twenty knots, you find you are in fact standing as still as a lamp-post. The interesting stranger when he became sensible of his progress, absorbed vast quantities of the "Thorndike mixture." "As well," murmured he, "might I now be standing in front of Harris's Folly, in High street, gazing at the northern lights, as to be sitting in this car whilst the conductors of the train are digging into the bowels of a snow bank." And his nasal organs received another reinforcement of the exhilarating tobacco dust.

It was five hours from the time he left the depot at Boston before the stranger was welcomed by Capt. Thayer on board the Ben Franklin. The Captain was wrapped up to the ears in one of the long-haired great coats of the time, and looked as comfortable as a moth in his blanket when attached to the plastering of an old house, to pass a hard winter. Speedily did the boat drop her fastenings, and scratch her way amongst the ice. For a time she pushed ahead like a dusty miller in a glue-pot. And there was a cracking of ice, a foaming of water and a sizzling of steam. And anon the boat retreated to gain a new impetus like a ram trying to beat out his brains for in despair. The ice like a craven gives way, but reluctantly as the shell of a hazel-nut to a decayed tooth. Forward! boat! courage! steam put your shoulder to the wheel! Victory!

We're simmering in the sound,
And all is dark around.

The next morning's sky was of a clear, serene and delightful blue, rivaling in beauty the cerulean dye of an apothecary's globe before a gas light in the darkest evening. But we are surrounded by ice at the entrance of the East river, as thick, as dense, and impenetrable as Col. Meachum's big cheeses, with which he tantalized the tasting organs of divers great men. But time—

"Whose gentle progress makes a calf an ox?"— time achieves everything. Behold us in New York!

Eleven o'clock, P. M.—My friend WATRES favored me with a dormitory, seventy-one steps above his own pedestal, which elevation I believe is about double that attained by Lauriat in his first balloon ascension from the rear of the frog-pond. From this cheerful eminence my prospect is more extensive than diversified. I see with satisfaction, the liberty-cap on the top of the City Hall which looms up through the smoke like a scare-crow. And then we have seven stacks of chimneys, two lightning rods, and slated roofs without number. I think of Asmodeus in the "Devil on Two Sticks." But the gong echoes through the lengthening corridors and I must descend to dinner.

What a spread do they throw up at the Astor House—some call it Oyster House (by mistake). The interesting gentleman in green spectacles is suspended between two dishes and knows not where to strike. The original Boyd, with his back towards the Park, is doing execution with a Bowie knife on a haunch of venison, whilst at the opposite end of the table stands Fred, in a snow-white apron, amusing himself by dissecting a pair of ducks. Every capital dish is kept warm by burners. Ministering servants in green jackets hover silently about like insects around a candle. I fear the interesting gentleman with Roman nose, green spectacles, and yellow whiskers, has got a bone in his throat.

The Saturday snow-storm did not reach New York. Dirty melting snow covers the pavements, and the sidewalks are overflowed. But the ladies disdian to disfigure their pretty feet with india rubber moccasins. Not a pair are to be seen in New York. The young gentlemen's heads appear to be turned, to judge from the quantity of hair under their chins. Boys here, seem all teeth and whiskers. The New York sleighs do not compare with those of Boston.

I'll forth and walk awhile. T. B.

Mr Thayer, of Braintree, complains that his remarks upon the subject of taking a census of the state were reported incorrectly, and especially those which he referred to his own town. We give his own version:—

"Such was the inclemency of the weather at this season, that it would be impossible to take an accurate census. I could have no confidence in one taken, at this season, and for a special purpose; I could not have confidence in one thus taken, not even in my own town."

Webb says that the whigs must resort to the bayonet! What a slim chance the silk-stocking popinjays of the aristocracy would stand in a contest with the hard-fisted democracy of the country! And how ridiculous for a fellow to talk of using bayonets who was frightened out of his senses at the sight of a mahogany stock to a pistol!

Zachary Cook, Henry Kinsman, and C. P. Curtis, Esqrs., have been appointed Mr Wise's commissioners in Boston, to receive evidence in behalf of the Whitney investigating committee. All whigs, of the deepest cerulean hue. Mr Kinsman is a partner of the "god-like," we believe. It is reported that Mr Curtis declines the honor!

"We have received the 'Protest of the State of Massachusetts against her Senators,' and shall enter it upon our Journal to-morrow morning."

"Verdard," and "North Market Street" to-morrow. "Q." is n't smart enough for the Post—it may do for the Atlas.

For the Boston Morning Post.

Mr Greene.—A correspondent has appeared in the Mercantile Journal of the 30th ult., on the subject of the Roxbury petition to the General Court for an alteration in the License Laws—it should be understood that the petition was the act of the Town, in legal Town meeting assembled—that the petitioners chose a committee of five, four of whom, it is believed, were born in Roxbury, and are a part of her most highly respectable citizens, to see the subject properly presented to the Legislature—that committee, in the discharge of their duty, gave the petition to a representative of Roxbury, supposing he would feel bound as a representative to bring the subject properly before the House, to be considered; but from some motive he has decreed that Roxbury shall not be heard in the Legislature through her representative, or that they have leave to withdraw their petition. The correspondent of the Journal is probably like myself, destitute of what we should call a full share of fortune's gifts; he appears destitute also of that liberal principle which is supposed necessary to perpetrate a free government—his remarks on the whole subject are evidence of his ignorance of facts, or recklessness of consequences; he states that a remonstrance was presented by a certain person against the whole proceeding of the Town meeting—this is false—as a great number who signed the remonstrance, were, and are, in favor of the contemplated change in the License Law—and the remonstrance was only against a certain clause, (instructing &c.) which was but one vote of the Town, and that was not before the committee—therefore a subject not there to be considered.

The correspondent has made a direct attack upon Chas. Davis, Esq., (as he is the only owner of a Distillery in Roxbury) which it is only necessary to repel where Mr D. is unknown; another charge is made with equal want of prudence on E. Lewis, Esq., one of our most wealthy and worthy fellow-citizens; and also another on the very respectable gentleman who was chosen to preside at the Town meeting last summer, where he pursued a course perfectly acceptable to the largest, and as respectable and orderly a Town meeting as ever assembled in Roxbury—and here the correspondent is disposed to leave the abuse of our fellow citizens and give an account of the efforts of the person of Brighton-Bank notoriety—he says here the person addressed the meeting at some length, as counsel it is supposed, as many of his remarks were of such a character as few individuals would advance, and they were generally confined to abuse of a large class of our most valuable population; and Mr Editor, to show you the good order that was preserved in the meeting, before the committee, when a reference was made to the meeting where the majority was 185 to 28, some of the self-satisfied promoters of good morals and good order cried aloud, "Yes, drunkards, yes,"—that was tolerated in this meeting, and that must go to seven eighths of the citizens of Roxbury, as it is believed that proportion are in favor of altering the License Law. One word more, Mr. Greene, and I stop—my name has been introduced by the correspondent in a way deserving notice. In behalf of the petitioners I did appear as the junior of the committee, and expressed in very simple terms the wishes of my fellow-citizens, and charged the chairman of the committee that his constituents would expect from him a report that the subject might properly come to the notice of the Legislature. I appeared before the committee at the request of the citizens of Roxbury—influenced by their views but not from mercenary objects—a principle of popular rights that were secured to us by a Revolution has induced me to use a feeble influence against the persecutions and prosecutions which are continued in the county of Norfolk—and the town of Roxbury are yet disposed to be heard by our present General Court.

The Way the Whigs gain Victories.—We copy the following from the Advocate—it contains a corroboration of facts stated by us at the time of their occurrence:—

"The election of Councilmen in Ward No. 3, which has been so closely and obstinately contested, is now before the Common Council, on a report of the committee on elections."

It appears from this report "that a legal voter of the Ward was refused and deprived of his vote, which would have been given for the democratic ticket, by one of the inspectors having marked 'Alien' against it on the Ward list, with a pencil. This vote, if received, would have elected the three democratic candidates, who were declared not chosen, as the numbers would then have stood 236 for each of them, and the whole number have been 470—a choice 235."

The committee remark on this monstrous usurpation of power and shameless violation of the rights of elections—"we cannot forbear to remark upon such an act on the part of an Inspector of elections as illegal, unjust, and fatal alike to the freedom of elections and the interest of the community."

And it is believed that if inspectors of elections would confine themselves to the strict line of their duty, much confusion would be avoided, and contested elections be rare.

And yet this committee refuse to right the injured parties, in this flagrant outrage upon the elective franchise, and withhold the name of the Inspector who committed so gross a violation of all propriety and law!

Either one or two.—Boston Post.

What might all that mean?—Eds. Detroit Spectator.

The line quoted by the Spectator was merely a reply to an anonymous correspondent—but a very valuable one—who asked us in a note, how many numbers we should like to have him write a week, and desired us to reply between two 3's, in the manner above. We make this full explanation of the mysterious line, not only in courtesy to our agreeable brother of the Spectator, but to answer, also, the numerous verbal inquiries it has elicited nearer home.

We went off to a party on Tuesday evening before reading the proof of Wednesday's paper—this is our apology for the unusual number of typographical errors which appeared in the columns of the Post yesterday. An editor must have a little justification once in a while, as well as other people; but that we indulged in no excess on the present occasion, we can prove by Mr Graham, who was in the room with us—we limited ourselves by his example.

Some of the members of the Legislature want to increase their pay. They had better shorten the session if they don't like their present remuneration. They stay here twice as long as it is necessary at their present wages, and if they are augmented, heaven only knows when they will go.

Sir John Herschel says that he has made some very important discoveries during his residence at the Cape of Good Hope, and that he should be ready to promulgate them in the Spring of 1838, when he will return to England.

A man in Buffalo pretends to have invented a gun as much before Cochran's for power and ingenuity, as C's rifle is before an elder pop-gun—it will discharge five hundred balls a minute by only winking at it.

We think that our correspondent "A." has used up the Herald most effectually—he had better let him run, now—"the game is not worth the candle."

Melancholy.—Mr Darius Boardman, an officer of Customs, and for many years Warden of Ward 3, a much respected citizen, left his residence on Tuesday evening last, about 6 o'clock, and has not since returned. His hat and coat were found this morning—the hat containing a number of Canton house memoranda—under one of the timbers on Charlestown bridge, and no doubt is entertained that he has drowned himself. He has recently exhibited symptoms of aberration of mind, approaching insanity.—Trans.

POLICE COURT.

The Case of George Washington Dixon.—A further hearing of this affair took place yesterday afternoon, in the presence of the densest crowd that ever sweltered in the Court Room. Only two witnesses were examined in support of the charge, and none for the defence, which was conducted by Thomas Gill.

Mr Beals testified to the loss of the pink paper, and his positive conviction, that the paper sold by Dixon to Mr Oakes, was the paper; because it corresponded in size, color, quality and quantity; but he promptly admitted, on the cross-examination, that there was paper precisely similar, in these four respects, to be got in the market. He also admitted that there had been different boys employed in and about the Counting Room in times past. He also said that the reason why he was not satisfied with Dixon's explanation, was, that Dixon, in times past, had been in the habit of hanging round the office, after business hours. He did not authorize the complaint, but was satisfied that it was made, and rather thought it was his own duty to make it.

Mr Oakes testified to purchasing the paper of Mr Dixon; and on the cross-examination, said that there was nothing like concealment on the part of Dixon; that he was not of a suspicious temper, and would be more likely to purchase the paper of a boy than most men; and that such paper might have been obtained at an evening auction. Mr Oakes said he printed the Bostonian for Mr Dixon, and did not at any time suspect him of the theft.

Mr Gill, in the argument for the defence, relied on the ground that the identity of the paper was not established, and that all the testimony for the prosecution was perfectly consistent with Dixon's statement, and therefore the legal presumption was, that he was innocent. He also adverted to the point, that the insertion of the advertisement for the boy might have had the direct effect of warning him to keep out of Mr Dixon's sight, which was the reason he had not been discovered.

Henry F. Harrington, the complainant, conducted the prosecution with vigor and determination. He maintained that the identity of the paper was proved as clearly as it was possible to prove the identity of such an article. He also asked, with great emphasis, why Dixon objected to the delay proffered him on Saturday, to enable him to produce the boy; and why there was not some evidence adduced to show that the boy had been searched for, since he had not produced him.

Mr Dixon wanted to speak in answer to Mr Harrington, who assented to it with the remark, that he would be sure to prove his guilt, if he attempted it. Mr Dixon, however, yielded to advice not to speak, and has since published his intended speech.

His Honor Judge Merrill briefly summed up the case, which he termed a difficult one; but inclining to the opinion that the identity of the paper was not clearly proved, though the evidence otherwise made it almost morally certain, that the larceny had been committed, and thereupon discharged him. He then gave him some good advice reminding him that this was his second arraignment, and that if he did not take heed, the evidence might be a little stronger in the next instance, and his conviction inevitable.

After he left the Court, he delivered his speech from the Court House steps, to an immense collection of people. He is certainly a rara avis—a regular "Non Such"—and of unrivaled eccentricity!

Legislative.—As our Reporter was yesterday engaged in the benevolent business of defending the "American Melodist," against a prosecution for stealing some paper from our counting room, we can only give a brief account of the doings of the "collective wisdom" of the State yesterday. By a reference to the general head, however, it will be seen that the House has decided to divide the Surplus Revenue upon the population of 1830 and 1837, for which a new census will be taken. This result will, probably, prove as satisfactory in general as any principle of distribution that has been proposed.

Miss Clifton's Lady Macbeth, last night, was a grand performance—the indomitable energy—the daring ambition—the reckless determination of a great, but wicked woman—were powerfully exhibited. Mr Hield's Macbeth was well played; Murdoch's Macduff, do. Muzzy made a good Banquo. Mr Leman, too, deserves a word of encouragement for his general correctness and efforts to acquire himself in the best manner—his abilities will admit. We have noticed with regret, in one or two papers, sneers at his performances, the style of which evinced ungovernable and intolerant feelings.

Lions, turn out.—In order to give timely notice to the country friends of MR WELCH, the liberal and honorable Manager of the Lion Theatre, we now announce his Benefit on Friday night. More anon!

The following was the only news we could find in last night's mail:—

From Florida.—A letter from an officer of the Army, dated Camp Dade, 10th Jan. 1837, states—"To-day Gen. Jessup arrived from Tampa Bay. A scouting party captured 15 Negroes near Waloo Swamp, who state that Powell was in the swamp with a few of the Mikusky Indians, the rest having left him. That in the several actions of Gov. Call, a great number of Indians were killed. That in the affair when the whites destroyed a boat in the Withlacoochee, 17th Jan. ten hostile Indians were killed and twenty wounded. That Jumper, Micapony and Abram, were at A-ha-pop-ka, and were willing to make terms, if they will be treated well. That the Indians have but a small quantity of ammunition left. The letter goes on to state, to-morrow we shall march against Powell or against Philip, at Top-ka-li-ka, or both, and that circumstances indicate an early termination of the war."

An express arrived last night to Col. Crane, from which we learn that Gen Jessup had ordered home the Georgia and Alabama Militia. There was a regular force sufficient in the field.

Extraordinary Scene at St. George's, Hanover Square.—A little before ten o'clock on Wednesday morning a carriage drew up to the vestry of the above church, when there alighted from it a party elegantly attired, two of whom were about, it was supposed, to enter into the holy state of matrimony. No sooner did the supposed bridegroom (an old gentleman) make his appearance than he was seized by the collar in the most furious manner by two men dressed as gentlemen, who put forth all their strength to hurry him into a post chaise which they had previously kept waiting in the neighbourhood upwards of an hour. The execution of this design was, however, prevented by the lovely bride and coachman, who had nearly succeeded in replacing the bridegroom safely in the carriage, when a policeman came up and the contending parties joined in the vestry the ladies who had previously alighted. After the lapse of about ten minutes they brought the old gentleman out, and placed him in the post-chaise, where he was joined by a male friend, and drove off. As they hurried him into the chaise, he said, "They want to declare me insane."—London Morning Post.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Wednesday, Feb. 1.—In the House. The Surplus Revenue Bill. The first question before the Committee to-day, was the amendment offered by Mr Walcott of Hopkinton, relative to not allowing any of the money to Paupers. A point of order being raised as to whether a feature which appeared to be so distinct in character, Mr Walcott withdrew his amendment. Mr Lincoln, of Worcester, then offered an amendment which proposed that the sum of $500,000, of the Surplus money, be appropriated for the payment of the debts of the Commonwealth. After considerable debate this amendment was negatived by a very large majority. Two other amendments were also offered, which shared the same fate.

Mr Hinckley, of Barnstable, submitted an amendment, providing that where any town has been enlarged or diminished by the annexing to, or taking therefrom any portion of territory, since the last census, that town so constituted or altered, shall receive its proportion according to its whole population. This amendment was adopted by yeas 210, nays 14.

Mr Kinnicut of Worcester offered an amendment, which was to distribute one half upon the census of 1830, and the other half on that of 1837.

Mr Kinnicut's amendment was very strongly supported by Mr Andrew of Salem, and opposed by Mr Rantoul. Motions were made for the committee to rise, report progress, and ask leave to sit again; but they were negatived.

Mr Kinnicut's motion being put, was decided in the affirmative, yeas 284, nays 184. So the house voted to divide the money, one half upon the census of 1830, and the other upon that of 1837.

What dreadful havoc the people have made in that citadel of their strength, the Senate, which was toasted at every Bank festival throughout the Union as the only barrier to restrain the usurpation of a despotic President! In Maine, after in vain instructing, the people were compelled early to annihilate from his Senatorship the Hon. PELEG SPRAGUE, who stood for a succession of days in one spot, and prophesied against the President, and preached up the Bank as the ark of our political safety. The virtuous JOHN HOLMES had preceded him, and led the way to this Curtian-like self-immolation. That sacrilegious gentleman, Mr BELL, of New Hampshire, who came in on pledges to obey instructions, went out cursing them. Mr ROBINS, of Rhode Island, saved himself by obtaining a re-election from a Legislature whose term had expired, and who had perpetrated their power by their own vote, after they were condemned by a vote of the people for the purpose of electing him. This proceeding was sanctioned by a report from Pinckney's committee, supported by the Bank majority of the Senate. Mr KNIGHT, his colleague, secured his place by the vote of a mutilated Legislature, a fully body not being returned; and now that the people have succeeded in getting a full general Assembly, these Senators find themselves the direct antagonists of the constituent body. Connecticut has disposed of her brace of panic Senators. New Jersey has voted Mr FRELINGHUYSEN into retirement, and Mr SOUTHWARD into insignificance. Virginia has settled her contested rights with her Messrs. TYLER, TAZEWELL, and LEIGH. North Carolina has asserted her supremacy over Mr MANGUM's magnificent dictation. Alabama is relieved from the Calhounery of GABRIEL MOORE. Louisiana has quietly laid Mr WAGGAMAN on the shelf, and politely, after the fashion of the French, relieved itself of Mr PORTER's boisterousness. Mississippi is redeemed from the POINDEXTER abomination, and will soon be rid of all its black sheep. And though last, not least, Ohio has dismissed her panic-maker to solitude. Fifteen condemned Senators in regular succession, certainly may be considered as affording a good lesson to apostasy.—Globe.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A N account of that most excellent Medicine prepared by Dr Loveman's Gilead House. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by appointment in Boston, at D. S. ROWLAND'S, 127 North Street, Boston.

To administer to a mind diseased, pluck from the Memory a rooted sorrow,
Raze out the written troubles of the Brain, and with a sweet oblivious Antidote,
Clear of that Bottom of that perilous story which weep upon the heart,

Dr. LOVEMAN'S Balm of Gilead is universally acknowledged to be peculiarly efficacious in all inward wasting, loss of appetite, indigestion, depression of spirits, trembling, shaking of the limbs or limbs, shortness of breath, and general weakness, and in all cases the gentle perspiration of the palms in the head and stomach, and promotes the perspiration. By the Medical Faculty this medicine is much esteemed for being pleasant to the taste and smell, gently astringing the stomach, and giving that proper tenacity which is so good digester of food.

Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead is recommended to the weak, the relaxed, and debilitated, as an agreeable and speedy restorative; and considered as a cordial, is essential to the comfort when before going to sleep, to partake of a warm bath, and when will enliven the spirits and invigorate the body, and when taken after fatigue, it will with a few hours relax, and away all laguer consequent on broken rest, and give relief from nervous sensation.

It is a most valuable remedy in all such diseases as are attended with the following symptoms, namely— a great stricture of the breast, with difficulty of breathing—violent palpitations of the heart, sudden flushes of heat in various parts of the body, a sense of cold, as if water was poured on them—Eying pain in the arms and limbs, back and belly, resembling those occasioned by a cold, and which is very variable, sometimes uncommonly slow, at other times very quick—yawning, the hicough, frequent sighing, and a sense of cold from a ball or lump in the throat—alternate fits of crying and convulsive tremors, the sleep unquiet, and seldom refreshing, and the patient often awakes with horrid dreams. Much has been said by interested individuals against Medicines that are advertised, but there is no person named Dr Loveman, and the Balm of Gilead, which is sold by Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead, that unless it was Rowland's was genuine and efficacious, it could not have obtained the unexampled demand it has acquired.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.
"Without Health we can enjoy no Fortune; Honors, Riches, and all other advantages are useless."

This Cordial has been uncommonly successful with young people who have the appearance and air of old age, who are pale, effeminate, lumbened, stupid, and even imbecile; who are listless and heart-silent, whose legs are no longer able to carry them, who have a watery disorder of the bowels, and are totally incapacitated. Where the stomach is frequently disordered, the body is weakened; paleness, bodily decay, emaciation succeed, and the eyes sink into the head. The virtues of Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead demonstrated, in numerous cases, the removal of all the dangerous symptoms of nervous debility, and nothing so tender as the constitution, and the frame of this medicine, as it secures success in those complaints which strike their roots so deep in the constitution, and are so fatal to the happiness of mankind.

Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead has risen in reputation with every part of the community. Some, perhaps, unequipped with its virtues, not having received the opportunity to benefit, may be induced to ask what is the Balm of Gilead good for? What complaint doth it cure?—To answer this it will be necessary to

THE TRUTH WILL PREVAIL.
CERTAIN DISEASES CURED.

Dr. Goodrich's Gonorrhea and Gleet Detergent.
 This medicine is infallibly remedied ever discovered for Gonorrhea and Gleet, and is now become too well known and established in all parts of the world, to require comment. It is uniformly successful in all cases, and has never failed. It is a powerful and universal solvent, which in no instance has failed to dissolve and expel all the morbid matter from the system. It is the only medicine granted it to cure in forty-eight hours the most desperate and violent inflammatory cases of Gonorrhea, Gleet, and whites in all their stages, stricture, Seminal Weakness, pains in the bladder, and all the other diseases of the urinary organs. It is equally successful in all affections of the urinary bladder and kidneys, if ever so violent or of long standing. This safe and infallible remedy is a pleasant and agreeable liquid, and its effects long on the constitution, and it is the only medicine that has the choice of excretion, and it is the only medicine that while it restores the system to its normal condition, gives every other kind of medicine only requires a limited trial to know its efficacy. Every person that has made use of this medicine has been his own physician, and secrecy has been preserved, and the medicine has been used in all cases of the disease, and, never to our knowledge failed in any instance. The vast and increasing sale from the recommendations of the highest medical characters, as well as those who have experienced the most beneficial effects, prove its efficacy in all cases, and the entire superiority of this medicine, in curing the most effectual remedy ever discovered or the cure of the above diseases, giving—muscular strength, energy and vigor to the rigorous health to the complete cure. The most delicate and sensitive is safe, and with absolute cure for the above diseases.

from the most recent to the most protracted cases. It is taken without any risk, inconvenience, or suspension from business. See that your case is eradicated, not patched up.

ness. See that your case is eradicated, not patched up by a quack. Those who are cured by this medicine, and who have not been cured by any other, will give you a single bottle as being convincing of the easy method of being cured. The motto of this medicine, "let every person cure his own disease," is the motto of every physician with secrecy." It will prevent the occurrence of the disease in persons, male or female, of the most obstinate and most fastidious delicacy, and is a real blessing to human kind. It ought always to be on hand.

N. B. A word to the wise.—Take no medicine but the above, and keep away from the quack Doctors, whose names will appear in every public print, and then you take no mercury.

TO THE PUBLIC.—Anacreon, the prince of ancient poets, the lover and the eulogist of the ladies, never forgot, in

Ovid never for one moment lost sight of the "balmy breath"

of his ladies, and his earnest recommendation to both sexes was ever to "keep your teeth clean, and your breath sweet."

The ancients had the means of doing so. Anacreon's beauties were as noted for their flowing zones and their eyes of fire, as for their teeth of pearl and their breath of balmy.

Ovid, who has taught us how to love and be loved, laid more stress upon the teeth and breath, than any other point—and

I once heard a lady sing, and most divinely. Her voice was clear, full and melodious, her tones superb, but the air beyond endurance.

Who does not wish to have this defect remedied? What lady does not wish to be blessed with the "teeth of pearl and the balmy breath," so noted by the divine Anacreon? What gentleman does not wish to be in every wish agreeable to the
